This is not strictly a book by Spike Milligan; he is one of five contributors. Spike's contribution was the poem "To Toni Savage's Old Press" which was also printed as a broadsheet. Spike Milligan's role is not clear whether he organised the creation of the chapbook or was just one of the contributors.

Toni Savage is not credited with the printing of this book. It appears to be a presentation to him. However Toni Savage was known to print at the Janus Gallery.

The information below is from the website of Julian Nagle, Bookseller. Unfortunately the website no longer exists.

"The Poet Unloved; a poem Illustrated with a drawing by Graham. Phoenix Broadsheet No 80. 'Hand set by Toni Savage at Leicester & printed on his itinerant press at the Janus Gallery, Ilkley, Yorks. Aug.28,1976 by visitors to a Folk-song evening and exhibition of Broadsheets."

This happens to be the same date of publication given to Poems for Toni Savage by at least one library catalogue.
