TRUE LOVE

Print run: Possibly large (100-300) as it was the first Milligan broadsheet Printed by Toni

I saw a purple balloon capture a girl one day.

He would not let her go. for heaven he strove to take her

but she was too heavy.

to prove his love, until

A hundred years later that night

would she find such a pure love.

So, he staved earth bound

he died with a bang. The little girl cried

for never again

Savage for Spike.

True Love was the first of a series of broadsheets printed for Spike by Toni Savage of Leicester. The image shows the original colour of the broadsheet. A copy of the True Love broadsheet is included with the Rigby Graham and David Deadman's 2005 book, A Paper Snowstorm, but it is blue in colour and was printed for the book.
